- Workshops

Turn your idea from dream to reality.

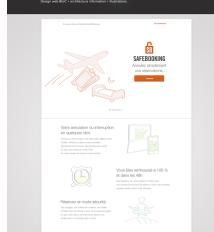

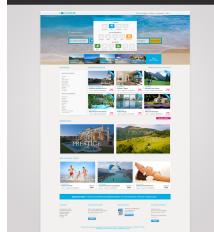

I love to work with startups because they are as passionate as I am about their products. Whether you need a brand new app, a full website redesign or just some sprucing up of current products, I want to help and make your startup dream a reality.

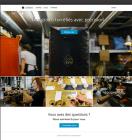

I live to create something of value and see it exist in the real world.
I love to work across disciplines and make an entire team successful.
I believe in process, and value pragmatism over theory. I understand qualitative and quantitative inputs merge with product intuition to create something awesome. Most importantly, I ship.

At the start of a project, I like to make sketches to help me understand the product we are trying to create. Who is the user? What is the product or service? It helps to build products that go live in the market and solve real problems for real customers.
